Research Assistant Position in Food Science and Technology Programme, NUS

A Research Assistant position is available in the Food Science and Technology Programme, c/o Department of Chemistry, National University of Singapore. The project goal is to study the effect of photodynamic treatment using light emitting diodes (LEDs) on the physicochemical and nutritional properties of fresh fruits.

Requirement:

The candidate should possess a BSc degree in the area of food science and technology or closely related fields such as agricultural or horticultural science. Research experience or knowledge of the LED technology is highly desirable.

Recruitment package:

1 year contract renewable;

Salary range: 3,300 – 3,600 S$/month including medical insurance and CPF.

Position is available immediately. Interested candidates should send their CVs to Prof. Zhou Weibiao at chmzwb@nus.edu.sg by Tuesday, 18th September, 2018.