

National University of Singapore-University of Tokyo-
Tokyo Institute of Technology
Joint Symposium on Food
Microbiology and Fermentation

Date: 9am-12:30pm ,15 July 2017

Venue: S8-03-14, Executive Classroom

Speakers and topics:

Cell fusion and incompatibility in Aspergillus oryzae, the industrial filamentous fungus used in Japanese traditional food fermentation. Dr. Jun-ichi Maruyama, Project Associate Professor, the University of Tokyo

Electrolysed water for sanitising organic fresh produce. Dr. Yang Hongshun, Assistant Professor, National University of Singapore

Modulation of pyruvate dehydrogenase (PDH) activity that underlies the metabolic state transition in Escherichia coli. Dr. Kan Tanaka, Professor, Tokyo Institute of Technology

Delivery of probiotics through beer – Is it possible? Dr. Liu Shao Quan, Associate Professor, National University of Singapore

Biosynthesis of secondary metabolites in Streptomyces and regulation of morphological differentiation in the rare actinomycete Actinoplanes missouriensis. Dr. Yasuo Ohnishi, Professor, the University of Tokyo

Register Now

